

Faculty Positions at American University of Antigua College of Medicine

The American University of Antigua College of Medicine (AUACOM) invites applications for a full-time position in various areas, including Microbiology & Immunology, Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology. The successful candidate will work as part of the Department of Basic Sciences to design and implement curriculum content—both large group approaches and small group facilitation—in these disciplines.

This is a full-time faculty position and will require relocation to the Caribbean island of Antigua. Antigua is a well-developed island that offers comfortable living conditions and multiple daily direct flights to the US and Europe. More information regarding the school can be located at www.auamed.org. AUA is one of only 3 Caribbean medical schools that has the necessary accreditations that allow its graduates to obtain licensure throughout the United States and Canada.

Minimum Qualifications:

The candidate must have a Ph.D. or M.D. degree or equivalent. Preferred qualifications include experience in small group facilitation. Experience teaching in a U.S.-based medical curriculum is desired but not required.

Applicants should submit their curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, and cover letter to careers@auamed.org.