Full Professorship in Prevention Research

The Department of Human Development and Family Studies (HDFS) in the College of Health and Human Development at The Pennsylvania State University, in coordination with the Bennett Pierce Prevention Research Center, invites applications for a tenured position at the rank of Full Professor. The position is accompanied by an Endowed Professorship - the Bennett Chair in Prevention Research. This faculty member will provide leadership in prevention science in HDFS and serve as a senior faculty in the Prevention Research Center. We are particularly interested in a faculty colleague who has broad experience in the field of prevention science and may have further background in public health, education, psychology, or a related field. A central qualification is that the candidate has substantial experience conducting intervention studies that focus on promoting well-being and positive outcomes and preventing disorder and negative outcomes in children during the period of birth to adolescence. Visit http://apptrkr.com/1075815 for details and to apply. Review of applications and nominations will begin as early as October 1, 2017 and will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. Informal inquiries or questions should be directed to Dr. Robert Roeser at mailto:rwr17@psu.edu. Please indicate “Prevention Search” in the subject line of all email correspondence. In addition to the on-line application, interested parties should upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae and supporting information (e.g., reprints, preprints, letters from three professional references) on-line with the application.
