

Full time, Non-Tenure Track Lecturer in Biology: Physiology

Department of Biology, University of Dayton, Dayton OH

The University of Dayton, Department of Biology invites applications for a full time non-tenure track lecturer position in Biology to join the faculty beginning August 16, 2018. The successful hire will be expected to teach upper-level laboratory and lecture courses in physiology. Additional duties include: the maintenance of laboratory manuals; grading of laboratory reports, assignments and exams; training of undergraduate and graduate teaching assistants; and developing new lectures and laboratory exercises in consultation with other faculty.

Requirements for the position include a Ph.D. degree in Biology, Physiology or related field; experience teaching upper-level undergraduate laboratory or lecture courses in physiology to biology majors; excellent written communication skills; and an articulated commitment to excellence in teaching at the undergraduate level.

Preference will be given to candidates who have demonstrated: excellence in oral communication skills; a commitment to and interest in advising and teaching students from diverse backgrounds; effective interpersonal and collaboration skills; an appreciation for the UD mission to educate the whole person; and the ability to contribute to a positive, collegial, work atmosphere.

A complete application consists of a cover letter that addresses qualifications for the position, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests and philosophy (1-2 pages), and a list of three references. Three letters of recommendation will be requested at a later date. Candidates can apply to this position online at <http://jobs.udayton.edu/postings/24842>. Applications are due February 1, 2018.

The University of Dayton, founded in 1850 by the Society of Mary, is a top ten Catholic research university. The University seeks outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community.

To attain its Catholic and Marianist mission, the University is committed to the principles of diversity, inclusion and affirmative action and to equal opportunity policies and practices. As an Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Employer we will not discriminate against minorities, females, protected veterans, individuals with disabilities, or on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity.