

APS Journal Legacy Content — Description and Order Form

THE APS JOURNAL LEGACY CONTENT is an “online package” of over 100 years of historical scientific research from 13 American Physiological Society (APS) research journals that can be purchased separately at a one-time charge for perpetual use. The Legacy Content is free to APS Members ($2,250 for nonmembers). It is not sold as a subscription; instead, you pay once for the perpetual access to the online content from these APS journals from 1898 to 1996-1998, depending on the journal (see chart below). This content goes back to the first issue of each of these APS journals—including APS’s first journal, the American Journal of Physiology, first published in 1898. The Legacy Content can be viewed as completely searchable scanned images of the printed pages.
