

THE PHYSIOLOGIST

The American Physiological Society was founded in 1887 for the purpose of promoting the increase of physiological knowledge and its utilization. The APS Constitution and Bylaws appears in the FASEB Membership Directory. Officers: President, Alfred P. Fishman, University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, PA; President-Elect, John B. West, University of California, La Jolla, CA; Past President, Walter C. Randall, Loyola University, Maywood, IL; Council, Alfred P. Fishman, John B. West, Walter C. Randall, Franklyn G. Knox, Jack L. Kostyo, Howard E. Morgan, Norman C. Staub; Executive Secretary-Treasurer, Orr E. Reynolds, 9650 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, MD 20814.

A Publication of the American Physiological Society, Orr E. Reynolds, Editor

Volume 27, Number 2

April 1984

28th APS President

William F. Hamilton 64

Historical Articles

History of the Cardiovascular Section. R. S. Alexander 67
The 1941-42 Search for an APS Emblem. T. A. Appel 69

Careers in Physiology

Physiology Chairman's Objectives in Selecting Young Members for a Large Multidisciplinary State University. H. V. Sparks, Jr. 71

Public Affairs

Lab Animal Legislation by the Congress May Be Stopped by the Clock. W. M. Samuels 73

Society News

Joint Meeting with the (British) Physiological Society,
September 1985. J. B. West 74
APS Fall Meeting, August 26-31, 1984, Lexington, KY 74
Statistics on APS Membership 75
Association of Chairmen of Departments of Physiology Analysis of Annual Questionnaire—1983/84 76
Membership Application 87
Membership Records Questionnaire 89
News of Senior Physiologists 91

Announcements 93

The Physiology Teacher

Renal Regulation of Acid-Base Balance: Ammonia Excretion. G. A. Tanner 95
Nutrition as a Modulator of the Aging Process. E. J. Masoro 98
Effects of Aging on the Respiratory System. M. G. Levitzky 102

Book Reviews 108

The Physiologist (ISSN 0031-9376) is published bimonthly by the American Physiological Society, 9650 Rockville Pike, Bethesda, MD 20814. Subscriptions: Distributed with the Physiology Teacher to members as part of their membership; nonmembers and institutions, $50.00 per year in the United States; elsewhere $65.00. Single copies and back issues, including Fall Abstracts issue, when available, $12.00 each. The American Physiological Society assumes no responsibility for the statements and opinions advanced by contributors to The Physiologist.

Cover: William F. Hamilton, 28th APS President, p. 64.