Assistant Professor, Pharmacology and Physiology

Georgetown University

Located in a historic neighborhood in the nation's capital, Georgetown offers rigorous academic programs, a global perspective, exciting ways to take advantage of Washington, D.C. Georgetown University Medical Center is an internationally recognized academic health and science center with a four-part mission of research, teaching, service and patient care (provided through a partnership with MedStar Health).

The largest, most prominent Catholic medical center in the country, Georgetown University Medical Center's mission is carried out with a dedication to the Catholic, Jesuit principles of public service ("women and men in service to others") and cura personalis, or "care of the whole person."

The Department of Pharmacology and Physiology is seeking qualified candidates for a full-time position at the level of Assistant Professor on the Medical Educator Track (non-tenure). Appointments on the Medical Educator track are for faculty who are primarily responsible for teaching and contributing to the development and delivery of the Medical Center's medical and graduate education programs. This position would start July 1, 2020, and applicants should hold a Ph.D., M.D. or D.O degree. This is an academic teaching and administrative position working with outstanding graduate programs. Candidates must demonstrate the ability to teach physiology in a medical center environment.

While participating in educational programs is the primary responsibility of an individual holding a Medical Educator track appointment, a Medical Educator track faculty member may occasionally participate in research and service.

The Department provides a highly supportive environment of mentorship and faculty development. Prospective candidates should provide the following documentation in support of your application:

Letter of Interest

Personal statement including previous experience

Teaching evaluations (student [and peer], if available

Teaching Portfolio, if available

Curriculum vitae

Please send the names, email addresses and phone numbers of three professional references. Please e-mail all materials to Ms. Natalie Hubbard, nh430@georgetown.edu

For further information about our programs (MS in Physiology and Special Master's Program), please visit https://apptrkr.com/1816494
If you are a qualified individual with a disability and need a reasonable accommodation for any part of the application and hiring process, contact the Office of Institutional Diversity, Equity, and Affirmative Action (IDEAA) at 202-687-4798 or ideaa@georgetown.edu.

EEO Statement:
Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex (including pregnancy, gender identity and expression, and sexual orientation), disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Benefits:
Georgetown University offers a wide variety of comprehensive and competitive benefits. Benefits packages include comprehensive health, dental and vision plans, disability and life insurance coverage, retirement savings programs, tuition assistance, voluntary insurance options (including group legal, accident, and critical illness), and much more. Whatever your need, the Office of Faculty and Staff Benefits will be standing by to support you. You can learn more about the benefits offered to eligible faculty and staff at https://benefits.georgetown.edu.

__________________________